

WHAT IS CLAIMED IS:

A computer-implemented method for conducting speech therapy comprising:

displaying a picture;

generating a speech prompt for information describing the picture;

inputting a speech response;

performing speech recognition on the input speech response to recognize words comprising the response; and performing natural language analysis of the recognized words to determine whether the response accurately describes the picture.

10

add
B1

add
C7

0306031-041